

Education Alumna Shows Devotion to Literacy for Children with Learning Disabilities

Virginia Lanier Biasotto, '59, has spent the last four decades involved with children's literacy initiatives. In 2006, she published an autobiographical book, Educating Andrew, A Promise Fulfilled. The book is about finding a way to help her son, who suffers from dyslexia, learn how to read. Because of her son's story, she also founded the Reading ASSIST® Institute and has authored ten Reading ASSIST textbooks.

School of Education Newsletter Winter 2010 | Volume 1 | Number 2